

Force controls the mid-square's color (gradient transitioning)

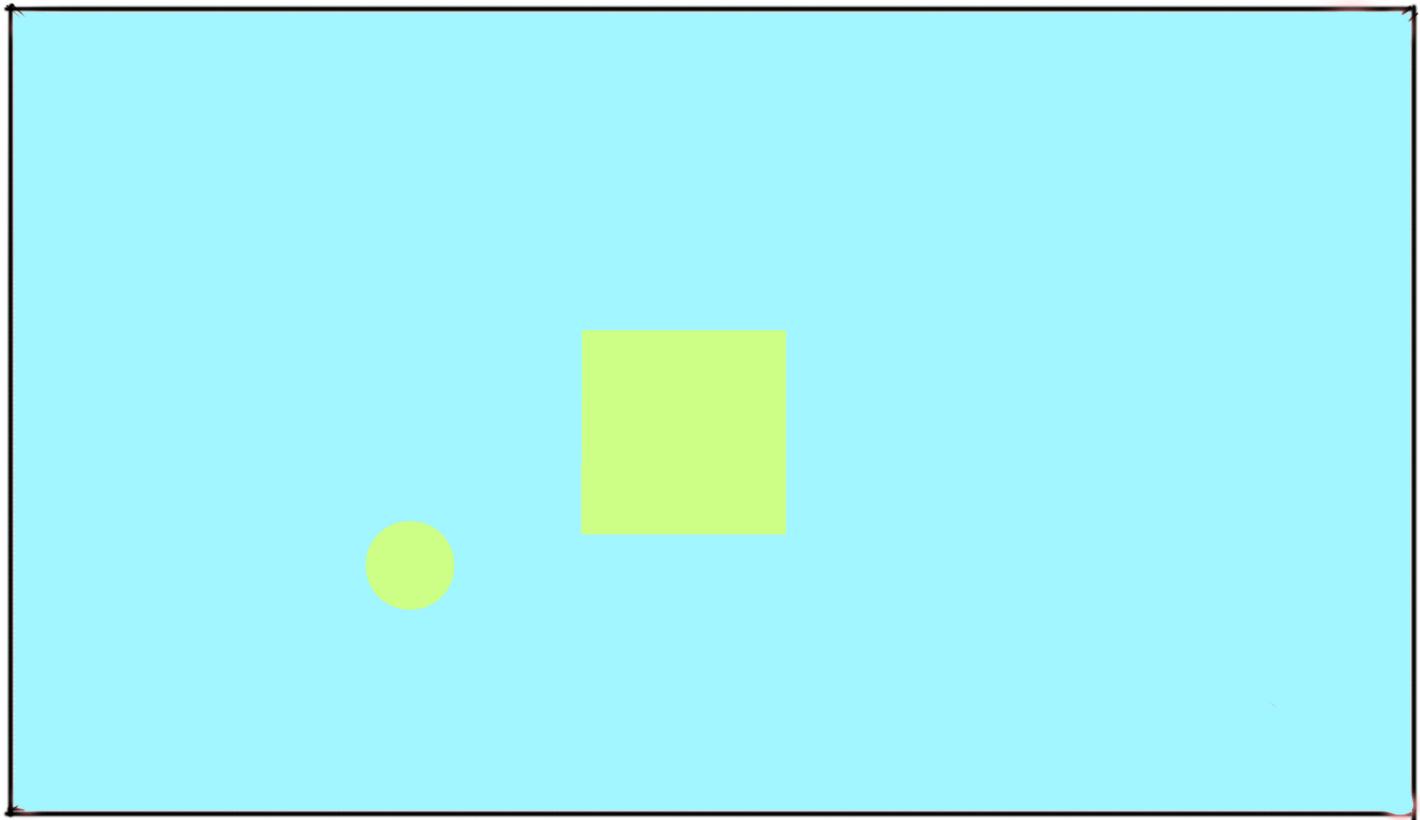

User must exert the correct amount of force to match the color of the background

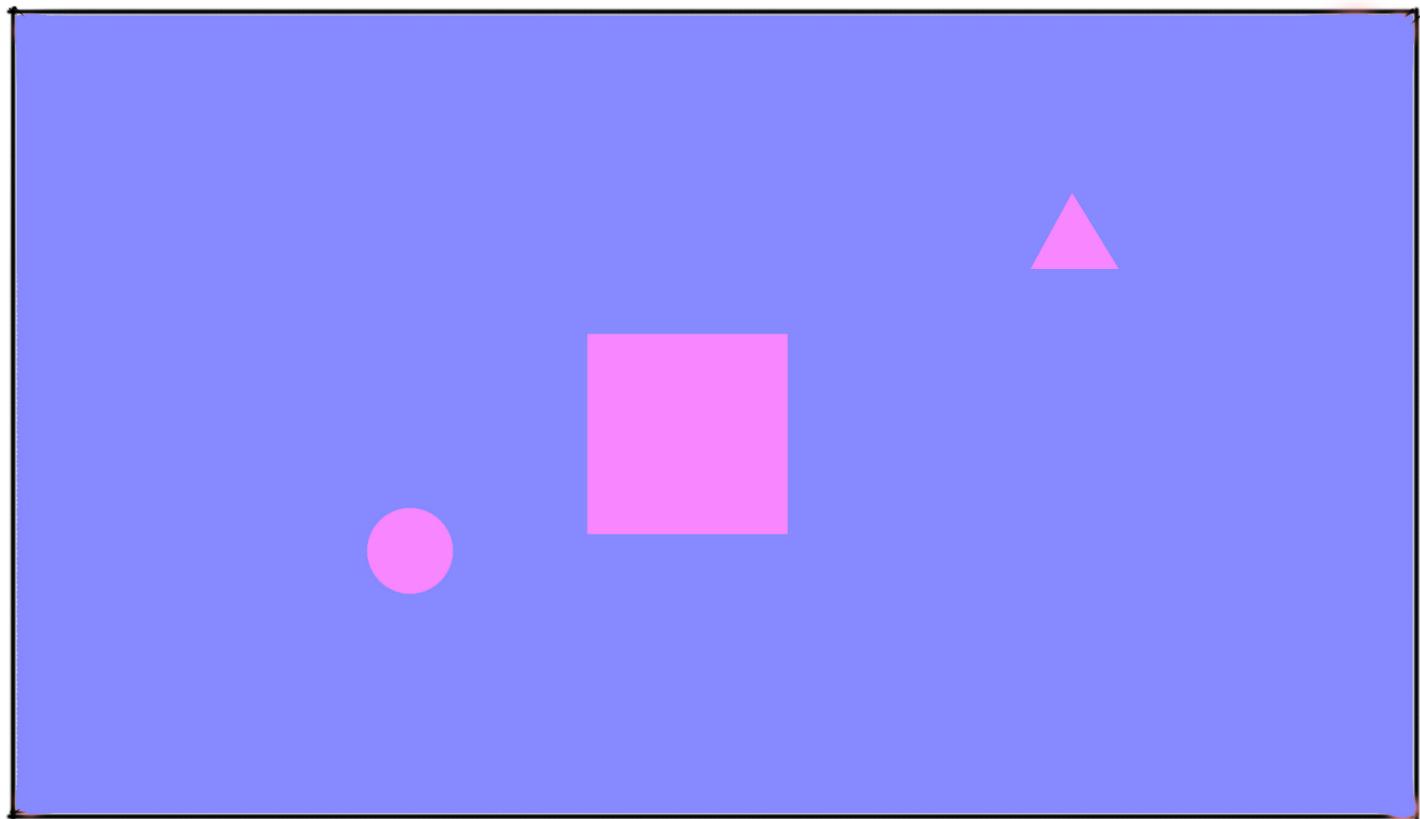

User must stay within a specific color range for 3 seconds to achieve function

Each successful sync of color creates a new shape that adds onto the canvas

The background color changes each time a match is made

More geometry is added as continuous matches have been created